

30th anniversary, PNB's Nutcracker

Magical memories

Ballet contest results

YOUR THURSDAY > B3

Special section

WINNER OF NINE PULITZER PRIZES

SEATTLETIMES.COM

$2.00

High, 54. Low, 44. > B8 seattletimes.com/weather

> Independent and locally owned since 18961.6 million readers weekly in Western Washington, in print and online

Fund For The Needy

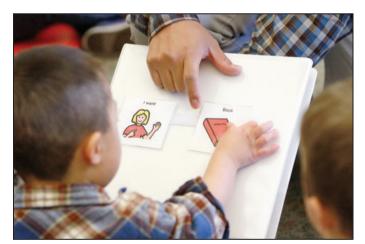

Join The Seattle Times in forging a stronger community by helping families and children in need.

Finding the right path for special-needs kids

PHOTOS BY KEN LAMBERT / THE SEATTLE TIMES

Colton Kivela, who has Down syndrome, works with speech-language pathologist Ann McMahon on wiping his face after a meal last Thursday. Colton will turn 3 next month, leaving Kindering Center to start preschool in a Lake Washington School District program.

Colton works with a therapist. He has learned to roll, sit, crawl, eat and walk with help of Kindering Center experts.

THEY — AND THEIR PARENTS — GET SOLID START AT KINDERING CENTER IN BELLEVUE

By JANET I. TU Seattle Times staff reporter

ecember is a big month for Colton Kivela. He'll be turning 3, "graduating" from Kindering Center and starting preschool at Lake Washington School District through its Ready Start program.

"It's been amazing, the progress he's made so far," said Colton's mom, Jamie Kivela, on a recent day, as she watched her son raise his hands in class and play with other kids.

Kindering Center, a nonprofit based in Bellevue that provides services for children from birth to 3 years old who have special needs, had a lot to

Jamie Kivela, 33, of Redmond, who works as a project controller at an engineering firm, hadn't known what to expect when she found out at See > FUND, A4

HOW YOU CAN GIVE

You can donate to the Fund For The Needy by sending in the coupon on A18 along with a check, money order or credit-card information. Or you can donate online at seattletimes.com/ffn

NEW SPD JOLT HITS ANOTHER MEMBER OF SENIOR BRASS

DEMOTION FOR ASSISTANT CHIEF

Shake-up follows harsh report over pace of reform

By STEVE MILETICH AND JENNIFER SULLIVAN Seattle Times staff reporters

In a move that has sent shock waves through the Seattle Police Department, Assistant Chief Nick Metz, one of the most visible and longest-serving members of the senior command staff, will leave the position in the wake of a highly critical report on the progress of police reforms.

Department members were told of the change in an email Wednesday from Interim Police Chief Jim Pugel, two days after the announcement that another assistant chief took a rank and file demotion to captain in what represents the biggest shake-up in the top ranks in years. Pugel gave Metz an ultimatum: Take an assignment to captain or accept a severance package, according to sources familiar with the move.

In emotional written messages to the department and community issued shortly after Pugel's announcement, Metz said he had accepted the demotion and would

See > METZ, A4

INSURINGHEALTH

Insurance sign-up for small firms is delayed a year on federal site

By ANITA KUMARY McClatchy Washington Bureau

WASHINGTON — The Obama administration said Wednesday that it will delay for one year the online enrollment for small businesses buying insurance through the new health-care law.

The Small Business Health Options Program, known as the SHOP exchange, will start online enrollment in November 2014, according to the Department of Health and Human Services. It already had been delayed once, from October to November.

Online enrollment for Obamacare was supposed to provide small businesses with a more efficient way to buy insurance coverage for their workers. But they still will have the option to buy insurance

See > HEALTH , A5

Each year, The Seattle Times Fund For The Needy raises money for a group of charities that help children, families and senior citizens. Throughout the fall and winter, The Times will tell how the 12 organizations make a difference in the lives of thousands, and the impact donors can make.

ABOUT THE SERIES

LINDSEY WASSON / THE SEATTLE TIMES

RARE MERGER OF TRADITIONS

Thanksgivukkah: When it's OK for two holidays to mash it up

A time of fun, puns

and lots of questions

By MICHELLE BOORSTEIN ıe Washington Post

WASHINGTON — For most American Jews, the Hanukkah script has been pretty clear for decades: Light candles in menorahs, make potato pancakes (called latkes), play a game with a spinning top called a dreidel, sing songs, give ly falls well into December. presents and call it a night (or eight, in this case).

Then came the menurkey of 2013. And greetings cards of pilgrims wearing the long, curly sideburns of the Orthodox. And debates about whether cranberry sauce goes with latkes.

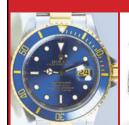

Witness the messy process of holiday creating, and on a lightning-fast scale. That's because of the extremely rare overlap Thursday of Thanksgiving and the first full day of Hanukkah, which usual-

Owing to an overlap in the Gregorian and Jewish calendars, Hanukkah and Thanksgiving have collided for the first time since at © 2013 Seattle Times Co.

See > HANUKKAH, A4

A large

menorah

Shimon

looms above

Emlen as he celebrates the beginning of

Hanukkah

Wednesday

evening in downtown

Seattle.

Porcello Is Buying Now! GUARANTEED TO MEET OR BEAT ANY REASONABLE OFFER!

10222 NE 8th St., Bellevue 98004 14-day buying event Wed. 12/4 - Tues. 12/17

Porcello Estate Buyers 📓 Call 425-454-2300 for a location near you or visit www.porcelloestatebuyers.com